Bangor University 22nd-24th March 2010

THE Sustainability Event of the Year for the Further and Higher Education Sector

Delegate Booking Information

The Conference

This key sector conference will deliver critical insight, tools and contacts to ensure universities and colleges can meet today's challenges:

- carbon reduction targets and legislation
- reduced funding and space utilisation
- accounting for environmental and social impacts

this conference aims to engage delegates to become leaders of the sustainability agenda.

Engage, Change, Sustain - From planning to practice will be a showcase for what works, and be a critical forum to equip delegates to deliver a more sustainable further and higher education sector. With accountability to stakeholders increasing, the need for this sector wide hands-on conference has never been greater. Ensure you environmental and sustainability staff are there.

This conference will enjoy expert keynote speakers, plenary, exhibition, networking opportunities, case studies and interactive workshops and will bring together the sectors' key thinkers and examples of best practice under one roof for discussion and exploration.

The conference reflects the sectors' commitment to sustainability for all and its determination to deliver an excellent one-stop-shop investing in leadership, community, learning and campus.

- Invited speakers include: Dr Anthony Cortese from AASHI/Second Nature (USA), A Minister from the Welsh Assembly Government, Association of Colleges (AoC), the New Economics Foundation (NEF) and Universities UK (UUK).
- Highlights include conference dinner with entertainment, exhibition, speed networking, themed workshops and world café.
- Exhibitions include architects and project management, design and consultation, environmental and corporate social responsibility, utility supply and management, office furniture and IT equipment, transport, volunteering and third sector organisations and waste management.
